

Catherine MacGregor

Chief Executive Officer of ENGIE

Catherine MacGregor is Group Chief Executive Officer and Board Member of ENGIE. She has at heart to act in line with the Group's purpose: accelerating the energy transition, with a positive impact for the people and the planet.

Before joining ENGIE in January 2021 as CEO, Catherine has led her whole career in the energy sector, where she has held different international leadership positions in the energy sector.

From 2019 to 2020, she was a member of TechnipFMC Executive Committee and the head of Technip Energies, hosting the engineering activities. She was notably in charge of the entity's IPO. Before these positions, she worked for 23 years at Schlumberger, where she held very diverse roles from operational engineer to President of different Group entities (Drilling, Europe & Africa) and to Group Vice-President HR, in diverse geographies (Africa, Europe, Asia, North America).

She has been a member of the Microsoft Board as an independent director since December 2023.

Actively involved in the World Economic Forum, she is part of its Alliance of CEO Climate Leaders.

Catherine is an engineer and graduated from Ecole Centrale of Paris (Centrale Supélec).
